FORE

The spirit of Madison High School is that intangible quality that is ever present, never seen, but always felt. It is that special feeling that transforms the school from a mere building into a world of enthusiasm, curiosity, ingenuity, and laughter.

School spirit is the harmonious relationship involving students, faculty, and parents. It is excellence in class work, participation in clubs and organizations, hard work in athletics, and above all honor. The spirit of Madison is personified in those people who work, even without recognition, for the good of the school.

The essence of school spirit cannot be explained in mere words. The spirit of Madison, which evades definition, is more than words. The evidence of its existence is in the pride of the students for the school.

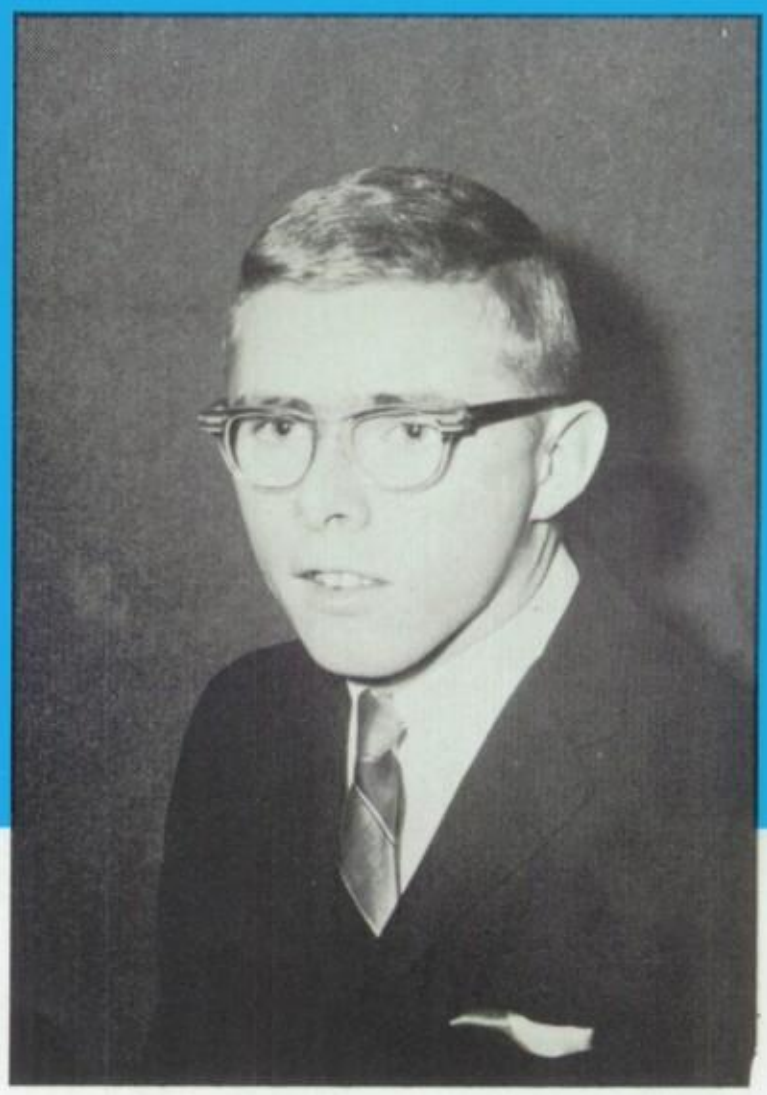
MADISON HIGH

DEDICATED TO THE DEDICATED



Loyalty and enthusiasm, two important components of school spirit, are best exemplified by Linda Frye and J. B. Baker. Linda, with her angelic smile and quiet personal courage, and J. B., known for his reliability and unobtrusive manner, have already been honored by their senior classmates for outstanding devotion to school. Because they are symbols of the fine spirit here at Madison High School, we dedicate the 1965 RAM to Linda Frye and J. B. Baker.

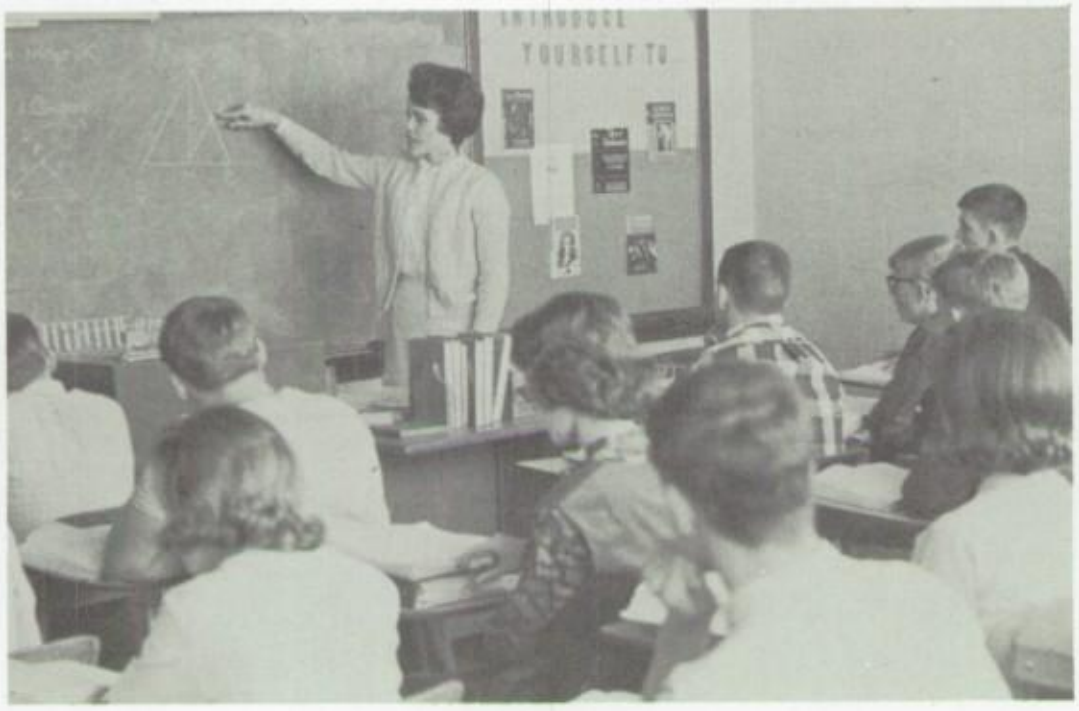
CLASSES



Since schools are primarily made for learning, we display in our classes a spirit which may be accurately called school spirit. Each year presents a new challenge—new and more difficult courses. Madison students, however, keep their appointments with learning. Our accomplishments in the classroom are not only important during our years of schooling, but they are also indicative of our future success. The success of Madison graduates inspires the entire school to display spirit and seek honor.

WE SALUTE

TERRY NEWSON

For his three years of service in the language lab. His duties have included making and cleaning tapes as well as being a general "flunky" to keep things moving smoothly.

LINDA KING
and
LINDA GRAHAM

For giving so generously of their time and talent through all their years at Madison. Hall bulletin boards, classroom boards, the publications, the prom, hours and hours at school and at home, these girls have left their footprints in Madison's sands.

DAVID CROWELL

For his years in the photography department. Through all these years of working with Mr. Wolery and trying to please the RAM Staff, David has kept his ready smile and calm composure.

MIKE SLOAN

For his years of service on the Bulletin Board Committee. Mike's particular ability to get the message across will long be remembered by his classmates. We salute Mike, our biggest artist.

BETTY CALLIS

For her four years of outstanding service to the library. In addition, she has been active in F.T.A. here in the Metropolitan organization, on the RAM Page staff, and other unrecognized positions. Her many activities have not hindered her in maintaining an excellent scholastic average.

TONY MERRYMAN
and
JERRY MAYES

For three years of service in the athletic department. Working during school hours and after school, Jerry and Tony have done a wonderful "behind the teams" job.

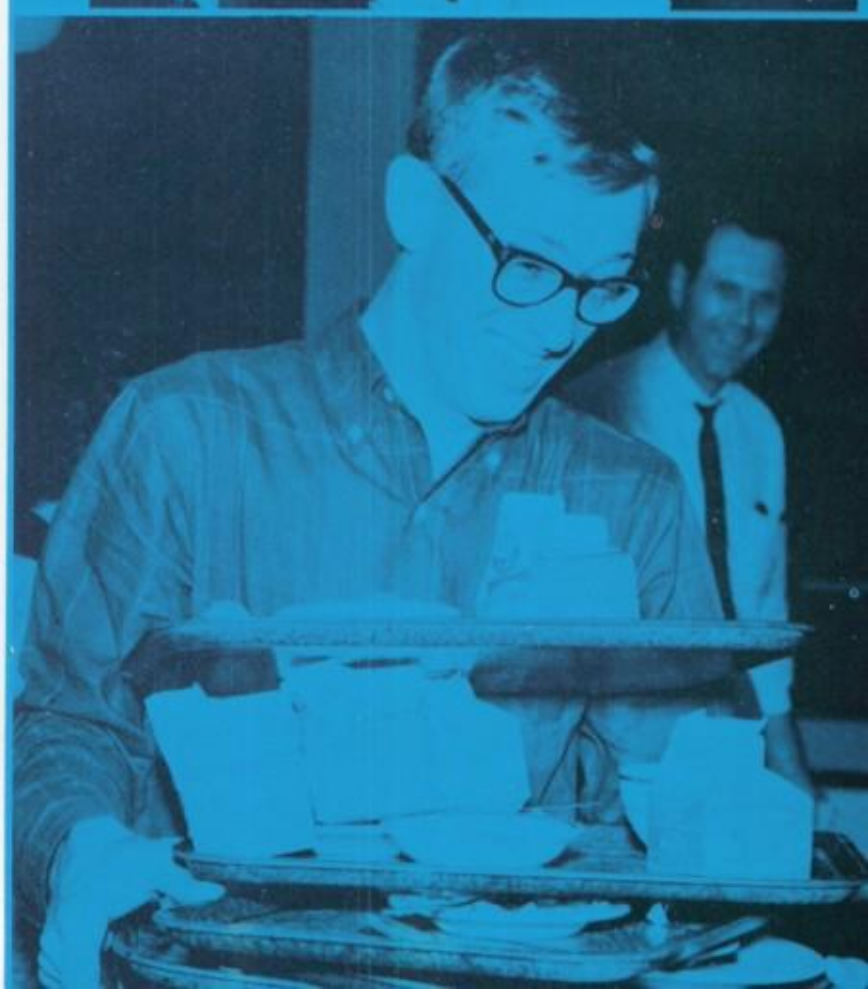
STUDENT LIFE



Sprinting to lunch, turning those dull study hall periods into extra-enjoyable periods, courting in the halls—all these are part of the daily life of Madison High School students.

We've had fads that have affected the entire school—such as textured hose, turtle neck sweaters, and "be-bops" (oxfords).

The RAM Staff has included this section so that students can look back at their year at Madison and remember the unusual as well as the commonplace. Sixty years from now, as you sit in your rocking chair thumbing through your '65 RAM, we hope you'll remember all the best about M. H. S.

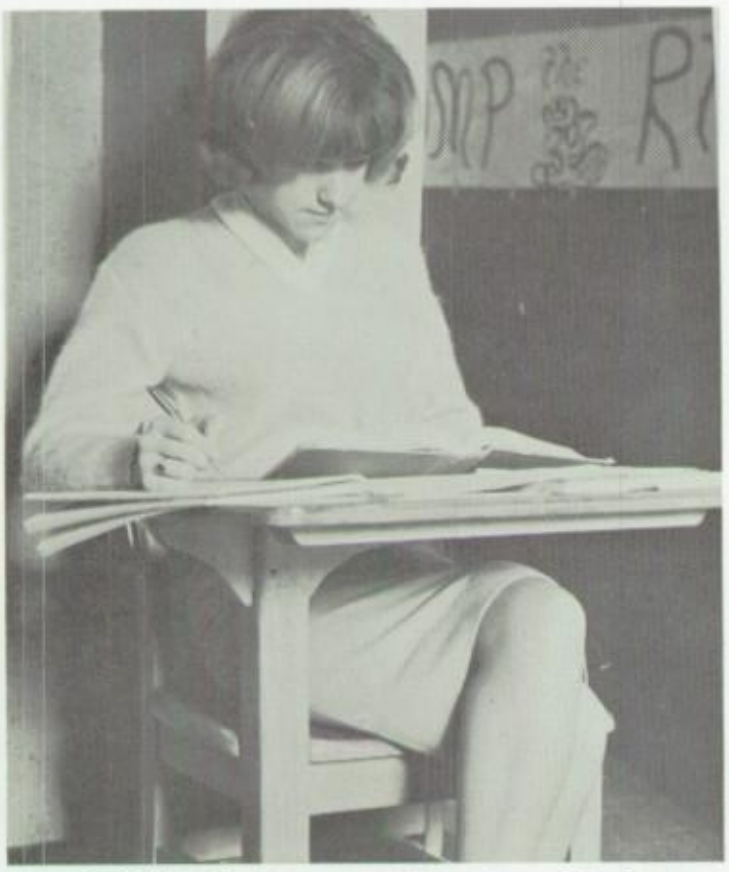
FORENSICS . . . practice . . . meets . . . practice . . .

Susan Burrow is puzzled over extemp topics.

Charles Nelson and Bobby Bohnensteil practice "The Rope".

Roger Young and Dwight Moore, Charles Nelson and Kenneth Kornman practice debate.

HOW TO GET OUT OF STUDY HALL



Vickie Gaines watches for "hall-roamers" . . .

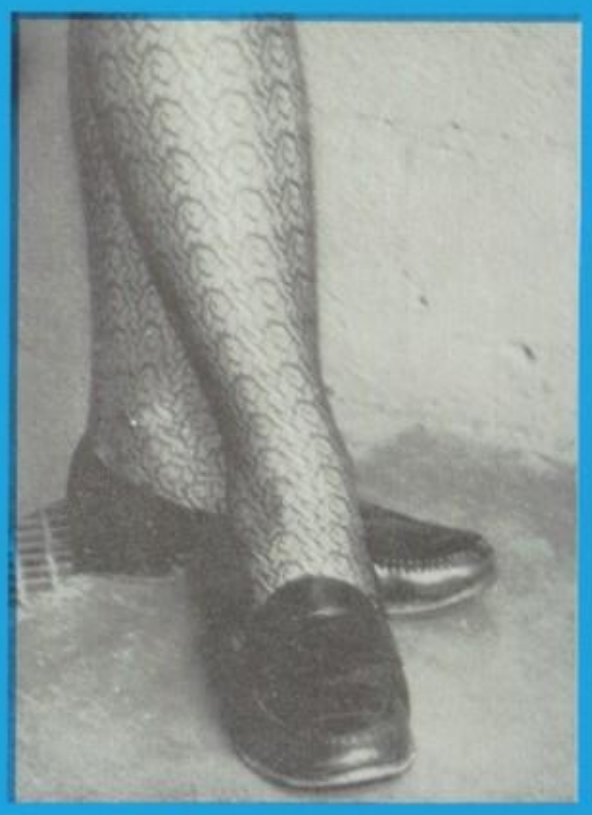
. . . Some students type in Mrs. Johnson's closet.

Lab assistants listen to music, as well as Spanish lessons.

Student secretaries, Linda Petty and Sylvia Slack, enjoy their free hour with Mr. Martin.

. . . Those busy, busy office workers.

A familiar sound in the halls—"Which twin are you?"

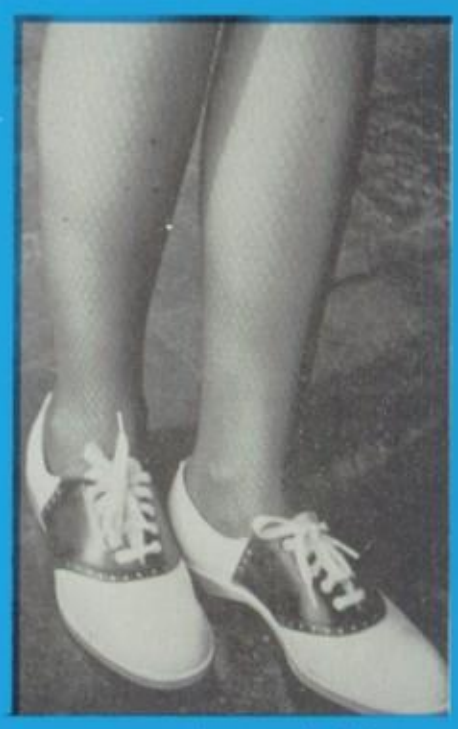


Fads . . . fads . . .

A Student Council committee prepares for Christmas.

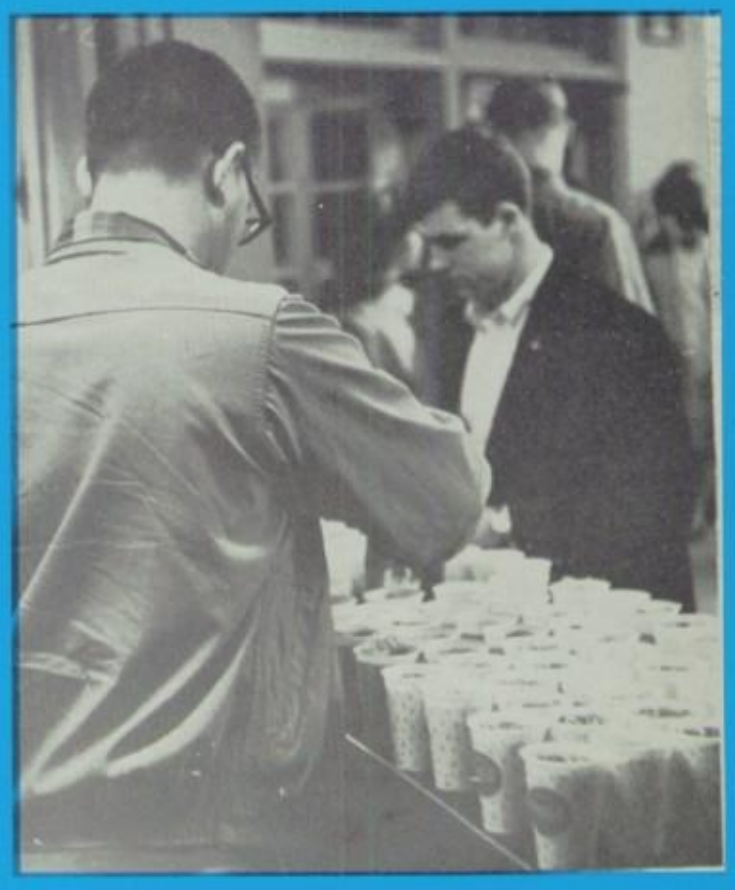
Frank Spero buys his annual from Leslie Cunningham.

Steve Odom and Becky Bates "check in" with Mr. Corbitt.

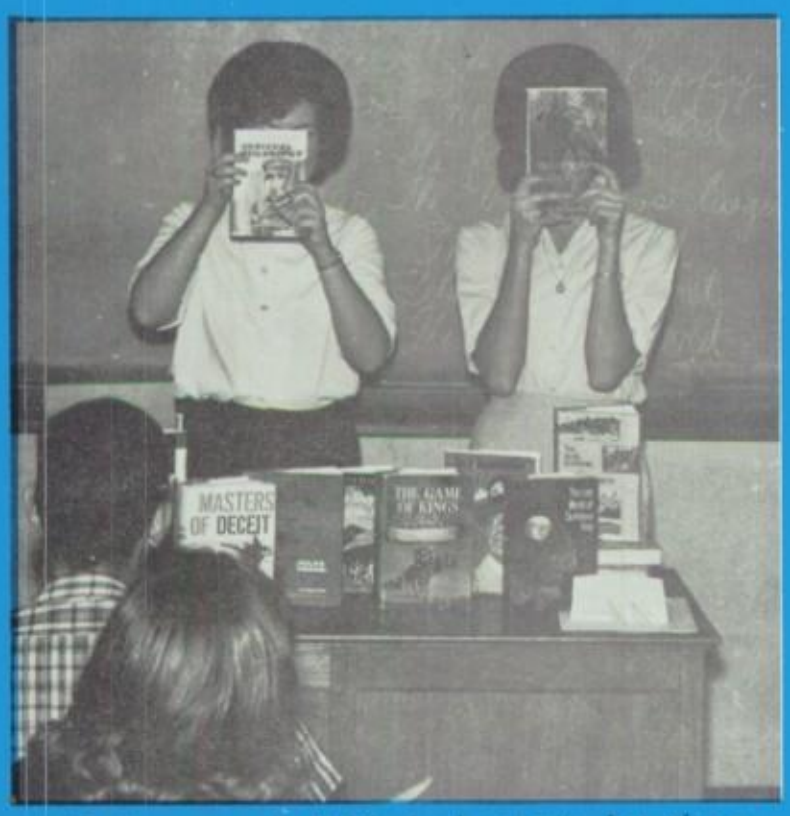


. . . and more fads!

Terry Newson finds his change, for a change.



Ball games AND food are important parts of any student's life.



"We know you don't like book reports, but please don't throw eggs!"

Best wishes always. Have a good 4 years Carol Evans

The epitome of school spirit—Mr. Jimmy Graves, Friendliest, Class of '59, marries Zenith Adcock, Best School Spirit, and then comes back as a teacher in 1965.

"Students! Economics is fun!"

Yes, I'm the editor of the New York Times.

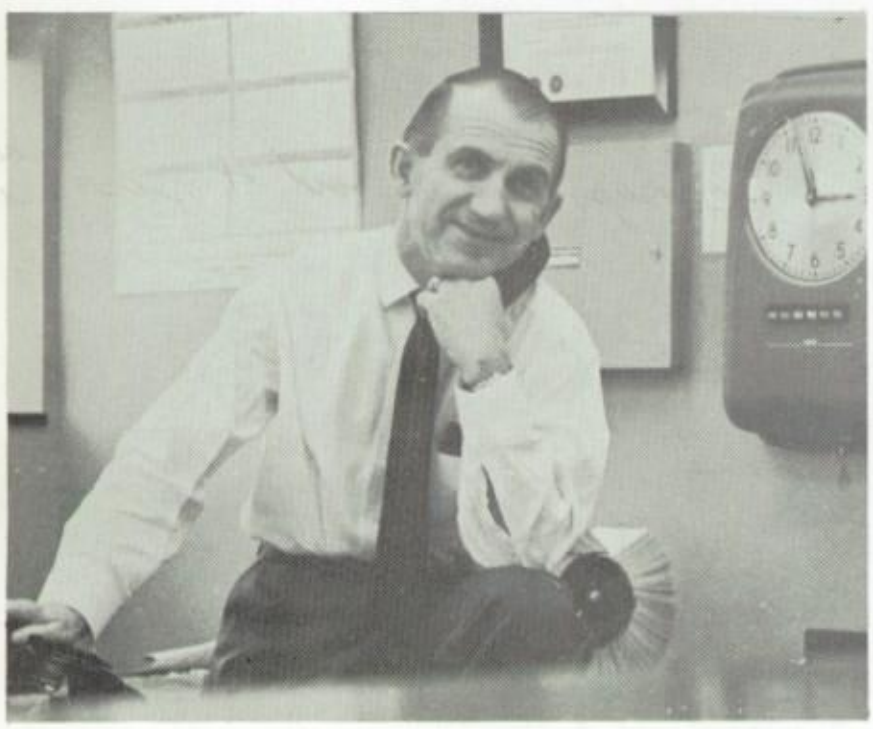
Such school spirit! David Vester sleeps with the Ram Page.

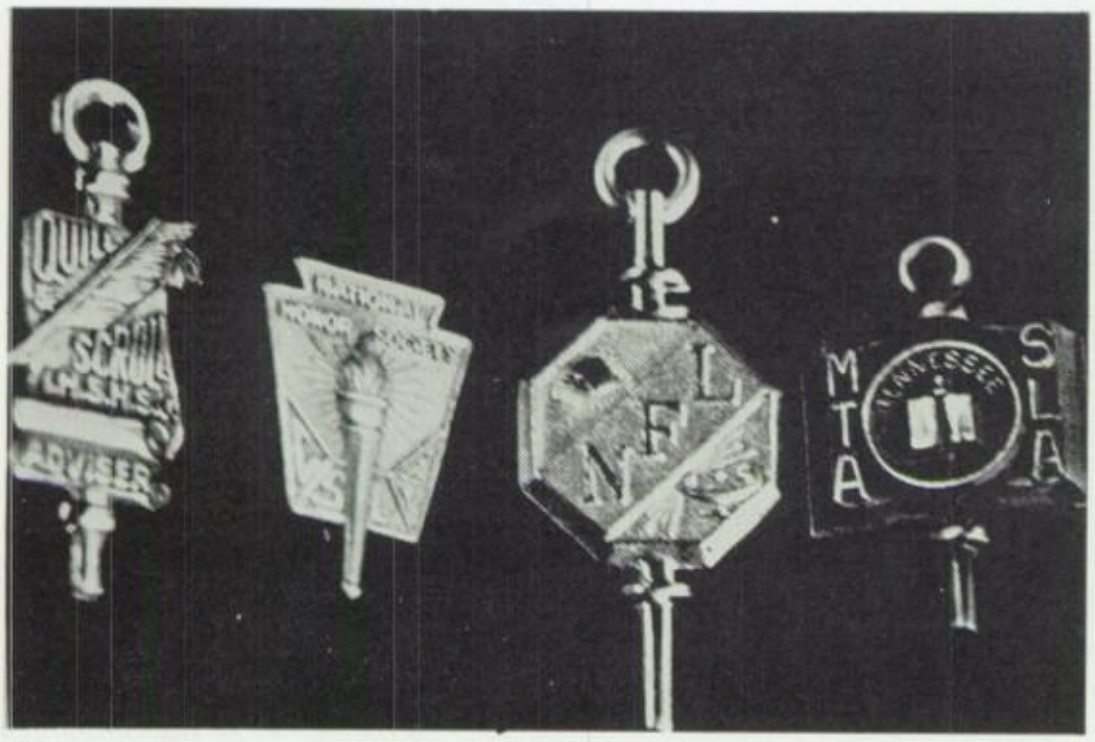


"You mean you can't come to school today?"

Gerald! Gerald! we graduate Seniors not bury them!

Love, dreams, laughter—all part of student life in Sociology socio-dramas.

ORGANIZATIONS



Madison students exhibit their interest in the school by participating in the many organizations that are a working part of the school. These organizations are a meeting ground of common interests—that "something" which is earned through extra effort. The students who give their time, service, and talent are living examples of school spirit at Madison.

BULLETIN BOARD COMMITTEE

In the past year, as in years gone by, the Bulletin Board Committee has endeavored to promote good school spirit by creating effective and appropriate displays for the hall bulletin boards. The excellent display and choice of themes this year have encouraged interest in extracurricular activities and awareness of existing school problems.

Working with the Student Council and through the library and various other departments, the committee develops ideas pertaining to various phases of school life.

Democracy In Action

The Student Council of Madison High School has devoted its efforts to the development of a working relationship between parents, teachers, and students. This year the Council has taken a definite stand on several issues to maintain this all-important relationship and continue the policies for which it is noted.

It has been the aim of the Student Council to promote a greater understanding and appreciation of Madison High School and its standards and ideals. This year has been outstanding, and certainly much credit goes to the fine co-operation of the faculty and student body through our Student Council.

Degree of Double Distinction

The Madison Chapter of the National Forensic League is proud of its distinguished record of achievements. This year, the chapter boasts 46 members and received one of 25 awards given in the nation to leading chapters. The Madison forensic coach, Mrs. Eldridge, was also presented one of the two national Distinguished Service awards.

Each year Madison attends several state-wide and inter-state tournaments. In competition at Paducah, Kentucky, and Birmingham, Alabama, Madison's representatives earned the sweepstakes awards. At the Barkley Forum in Atlanta, Georgia, Madison placed second among 50 schools in the Southeastern United States.

Madison forensic members are not only successful as a team but also individually. In the summer of 1964, Madison sent Margaret Edds to the National tournament in Akron, Ohio, she placed second in the nation in Girls Extemp and sixth in Dramatic. Charles Nelson and Kenneth Kornman are now tied for third place in the nation.

The Madison High Chapter of the National Honor Society gives national recognition to the outstanding members of the Junior and Senior classes. It is an honorary organization rather than a service club, because its members are already leaders in other phases of school life. The Honor Society admits members on the basis of four qualities displayed on the emblem: character, service, leadership, and scholarship.

This year, the Lassies have enlarged their program, emphasizing reading and the library in the total school program. This year, the Lassies instituted a school-wide reading survey to poll the reading interests of Madison students. They once again sponsored a successful Book Week, presenting book talks to all lower grades and many senior high classes as well.

This year the Lassies used their newly-adopted plaid, that of the Royal Stuart clan, as the theme for their annual Induction Service. The Madison Library Lassies sent delegates to the annual MTA of SLA Conference in Murfreesboro on April first. Janie Douglas served as this year's MTA of SLA secretary. Nancy England, the club's historian, prepared the Lassies' scrapbook which was entered in competition.

The summer school program, one of the Lassies' many projects, was opened to serve both the students and the faculty who took advantage of Madison's expanding summer program. Judy Goetz was student librarian for the summer school program.

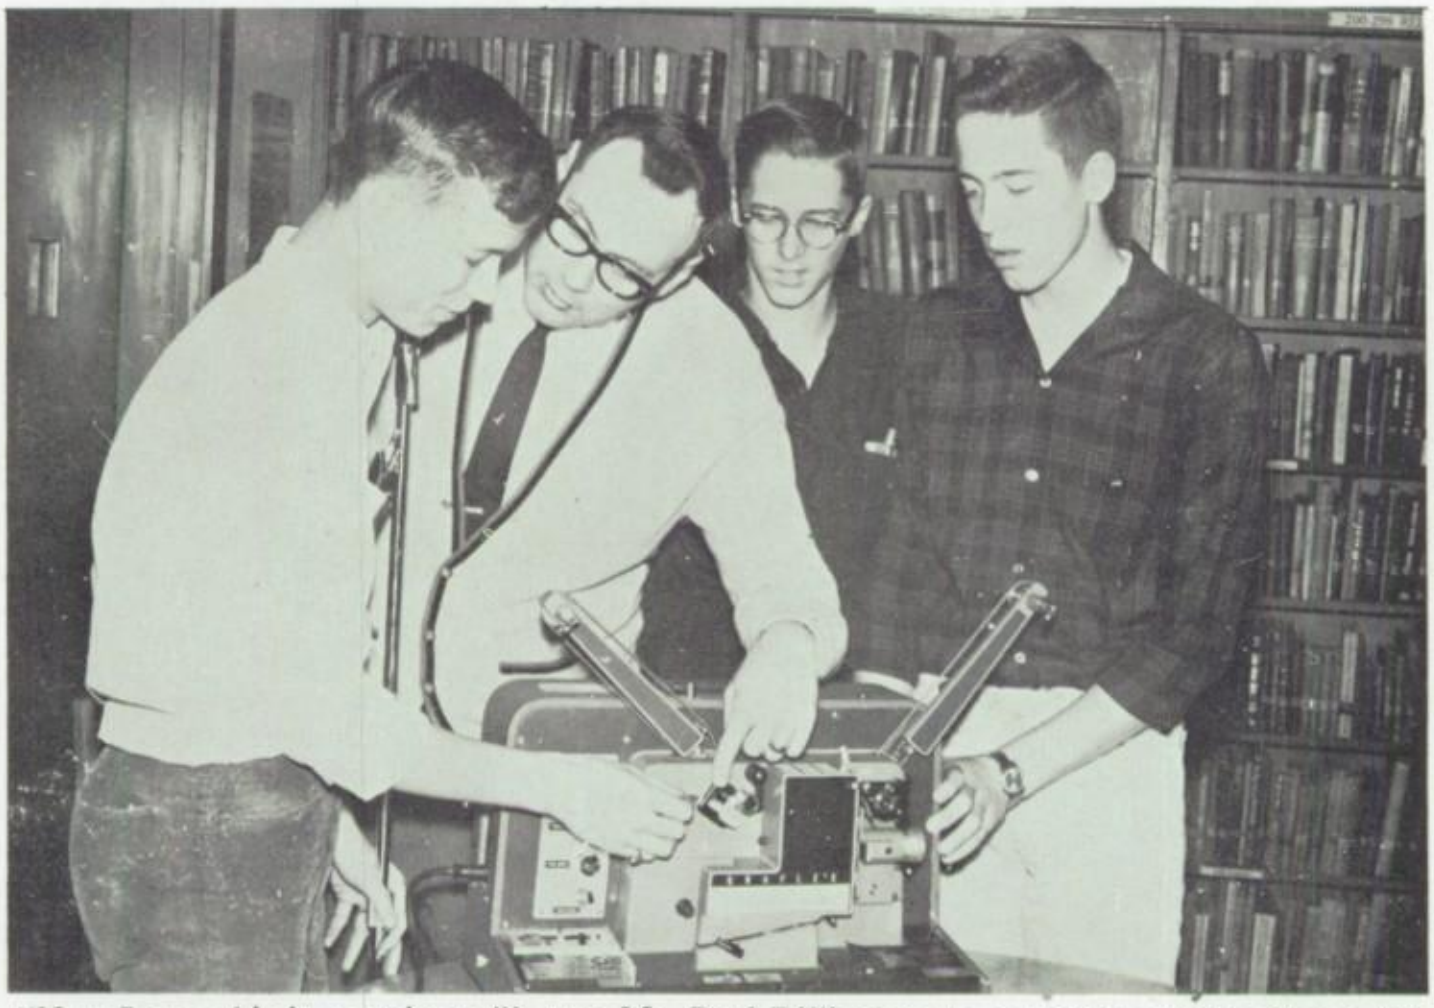
AUDIO VISUAL AIDS



"Now Jerry, this is a projector!", says Mr. Paul Dillingham to on-looking Audio Visual Aid boys, Jerry Mayes, Larry Stacey, and Roger Stewart.

From amid the reels of film and rolls of tape, from an accidentally unwound tape-recorder, you can hear the confident voice of Mr. Dillingham 'trying' to tell the Audio Visual Aid boys something about his equipment.

Although they receive little recognition during the rest of the school year, now is the proper time to thank them for another year of fine service.

CLUBS

Club activities are an integral part of the lives of many Madison students. There are many programs and projects which give everyone the opportunity for participation and friendship. Clubs also give students the chance to serve their school, their fellow citizens, and their community. The members of Madison's clubs share ideas and experiences, fun and work, thus showing their school spirit.

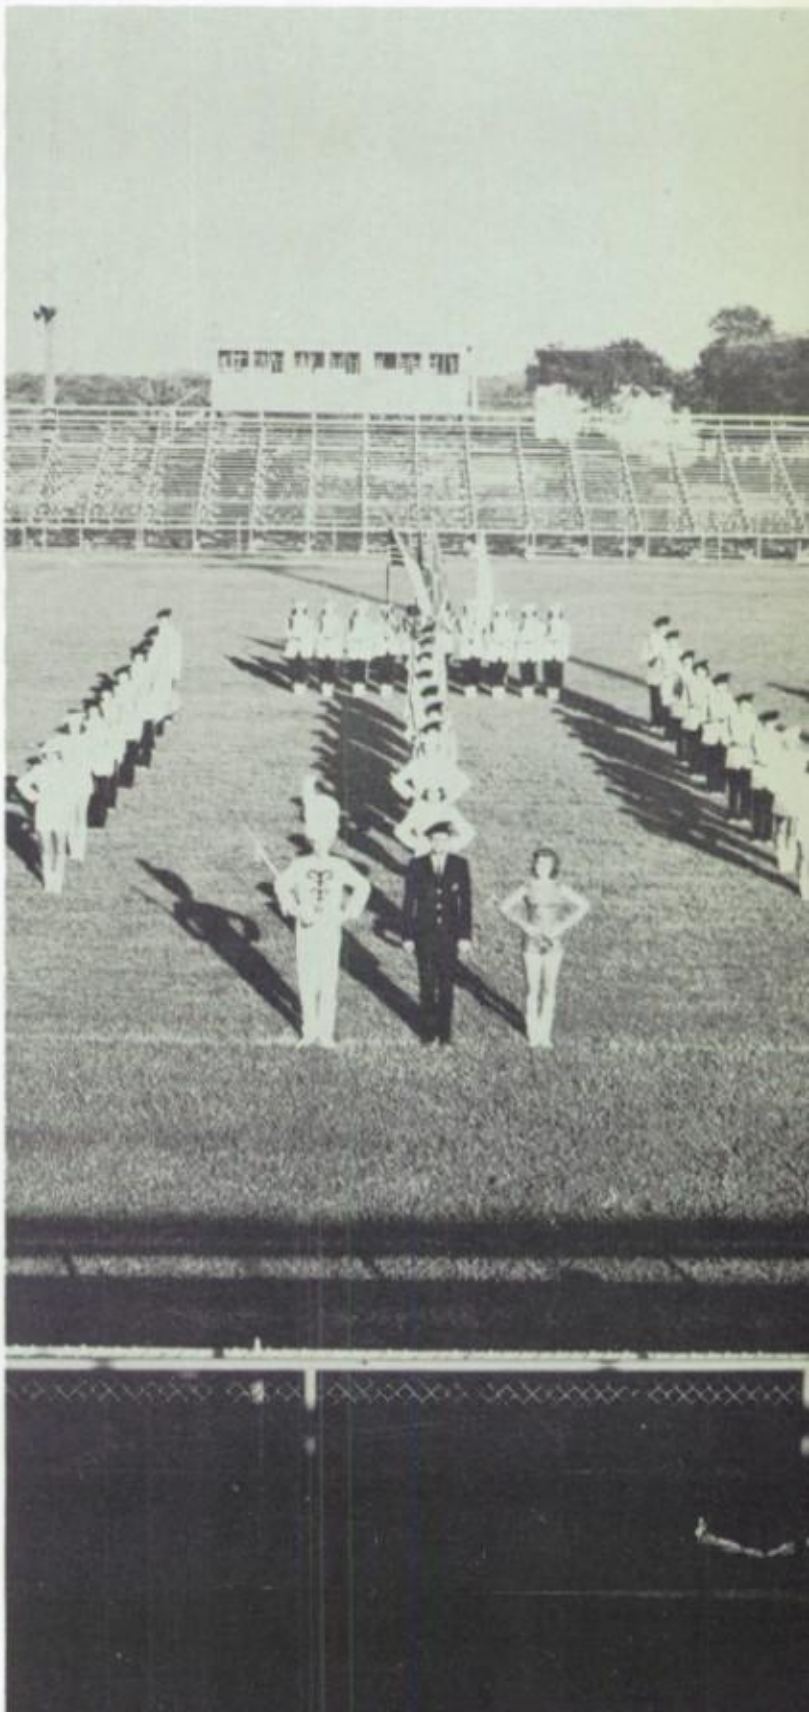
MUSIC

The members of the Music department exhibit their colors and spirit at ball games, in assemblies, and in community activities. They have traveled many miles to play and sing for Madison. The students at Madison are proud to have a band and chorus that represent the school in such a fitting way.



MAJORETTES

The majorettes are a vital part of the Madison High Band. This year they performed with the band at every parade and half-time ceremony. The majorettes also participated in several twirling festivals and won numerous trophies and medals.

Mr. John Wade, Band Director

Students returning to Madison in the fall were shocked at the appearance of their band director. Mr. Wade was exhibiting his school spirit by growing a Van Dyke beard in preparation for the band's participation in the Hillbilly Day festivities.

COLOR GUARD

The color guard was permitted to fire genuine rifles in the half-time ceremonies. The girls discovered, much to their amazement, that guns do kick! They emerged from the ordeal, however, with only bruised shoulders and sore toes.

With Mr. Wade's help, Steve Petty and Tommy Fusarini display the new uniforms.

Band members, Bobby Watral and Charles Travis, are "surprised" by the Ram photographer on the Knoxville trip.

SPORTS

The most common meaning of the words school spirit is sports and team support. Madison is certainly not lacking in this category. The members of the Madison teams, both Varsity and Junior High, have gained the reputation of not only being good athletes, but also avid supporters of the school, and the high standards of sportsmanship and spirit which it represents.

RAMS STIFLE SPARTANS

Madison celebrated homecoming with a big win over neighboring rival Stratford. Down 13–0 at the beginning of the fourth quarter, the Rams rushed to victory with three quick touchdowns. Led in the fourth quarter by the passing of Alex Beavers and the receiving of George Card and Jimmy Norris, Madison stiffed the fighting Spartans 20–13. Ram defense followed the pace set by Terry Cowan and Ken Apple.

RAMS NIP OVERTON

A third quarter touchdown and a vital extra point by Jerry Newson gave Madison a win over Overton 7–6. The Rams dominated the rushing game, gaining 216 yards rushing Overton while the defense, headed by Joe Gaines, Mike Buchanan and Jim Pigue, held the Bobcats to 62 yards rushing. Terry Newson and sophomore Robert Birdsong were standouts for Madison, sharing most of the rushing honors.

RAMS DEADLOCK IRISH

Billed as the top defensive battle of the year, the Rams clash with Ryan held up to expectations. Led defensively by All-City tackle Ken Apple, Mike Head, Jerry Malone and Bobby Cartwright, the Rams held Ryan to 57 yards rushing for the night. The Madison score was set up in the fourth quarter by a 34 yard Alex Beavers to Mike Buchanan pass. Terry Newson went over from the five and then added the extra point to deadlock the game.

BOYS VARSITY BASKETBALL

The 1964–65 RAM hoopsters, hurt by graduation, brought to the hardwood an inexperienced but spirited team. Sparked by junior forward Alex Beavers and senior guard Jimmy Howard, the Rams exhibited a fine amount of potential. Beavers, the number three high scorer in Tennessee, was selected as a member of the Nashville Tennessean All-City team. Howard received Honorable Mention. The Rams came up with a big victory, score—61–55, over arch-rival Litton to highlight the season. Billed all year as a team with much future potential, the Madison hoopsters look forward to a fine season next year.

The Madison girls were hurt by many close losses; however, they had a better season than the records indicate.

ASSEMBLIES

Representative, Richard Fulton

Madison High School is noted for its fine variety of assembly programs. This year, students have been entertained by such programs as Kangaroo Court, concerts by the band and chorus, and exchange assemblies with other schools. They have also been informed through speeches on safety, delivered by the Indianapolis 500 race drivers, and on a government and citizenship by Representative Richard Fulton.
